

ANDRÉS MANUEL LÓPEZ OBRADOR UNSTOPPABLE FOR THE MEXICAN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION OF JULY 1ST

Viet Juan Félix Costa

Leftist leader of México, Andrés Manuel López Obrador, finally seems set to win the 2018 Presidential election. The polls show 50% of the electorate in his favor with morena-PT and PES parties united around him. The second place right and conservative front (PAN-PRD and MC) has an almost impossible task to reach him with only sixty days remaining until D day.

With second place assured, Ricardo Anaya showed contradictory strategies in order to reach López Obrador. First, he said he will put President of Mexico Enrique Peña Nieto in jail; some days later, he said that he is open to anyone (including Peña Nieto) to assure that Obrador does not win.

But the worst letter of presentation of Anaya is not that he is very young with almost no experience on the public service, but that he has solid ties with the Peña Nieto administration and approving all the major contra reforms in México (labor, education and especially the privatization of the oil industry). Also, he has recently been investigated for money laundering in México and Europe.

Because Mexican people are tired of corruption and so many failures of the PRI-government increasing life expenditures and violating human rights, with 2 terrible candidates (Meade and Anaya) and with one very encouraging one (López Obrador), it seems that in this campaigns, “this rice already cooked” - “este arroz ya se coció”.

